

A Safe Place

TRANSFORMING LIVES AFTER DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

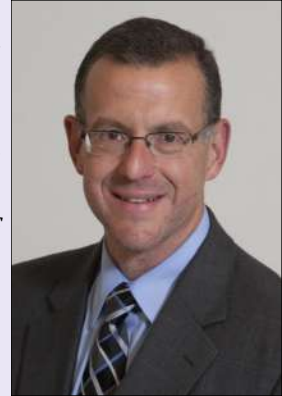

2012 Annual Report

A Letter from our President

Dear Friends:

Another year has passed, and again I am faced with reflecting on the past year as Board President of A Safe Place. I have to say that it has been a challenging year, and a year of significant change. I think that we all know that change can mean different things to different people. Some view change as negative, others view change as opportunity. Even in the dictionary, change takes several meanings. Here are a few: To make the future course different from what it is or from what it would be if left alone, to transform, to pass gradually into. I find myself drawn to the first one - To make the future course different from what it is or from what it would be if left alone. In and of itself, this definition isn't good or bad, positive or negative, just that things will be different.

We ended our fiscal year at the very tail end of a search for a new executive director. The search was not an easy or fast moving process. The good part about it is the ability to strategize and think creatively about the characteristics that would be desirable for this role. Another positive outcome was the ability for the board to get more acquainted with the day to day life of the agency during the transitional period.

At the very start of this new year, our new executive director came on board. For those who did not get the announcement, her name is Patricia Davenport, and all I can say is that Pat came to A Safe Place ready to work, and work hard. With a change in leadership comes new energy, focus and ideas. Not only are we looking to continue to work hard but now we are looking at ways to work more efficiently and effectively, to use the same resources to get better results, and to measure our effectiveness in order to achieve more quality and success. All of these activities are things that we can be very excited and enthusiastic about. Kind of like how we feel enthused about our favorite sports team at the beginning of the season. Only in our case, our "wins" have a significantly greater impact on someone's life than a win on a sports venue.

As much as I started this letter talking about reflecting on the past year, I don't think I can fully express the anticipation that I feel about the coming year. Bringing us back to the change theme, I believe change presents opportunity. We now have an incredible opportunity to re-define the impact we want to have, to re-evaluate how to better serve our clients, and to further our relationships in the community. This will be another year of challenge. We are really looking to challenge ourselves to be better, more effective, and impact more lives both for intervention and prevention of the horrific crime of domestic violence.

Thank you to all of you who have been faithful to us. We are deeply grateful, and are very committed to continue to strive for the elimination of domestic violence.

Sincerely,

Supportive Housing: A New Beginning

In July 2011, A Safe Place opened the doors of safety and security for 20 more families who were welcomed into our brand new supportive housing apartments. With support from the Illinois Housing Development Authority, Lake County HOME, Federal Home Loan Bank, and First Midwest Bank, A Safe Place constructed a 20-apartment addition to our existing building in Zion. The new building was developed in partnership with Brinshore Development, LLC of Northbrook.

At A Safe Place, we have found that the greatest barrier to future safety that a survivor of domestic abuse faces is the lack of affordable housing in our area. Without a safe, affordable home, a formerly battered woman may return to the home of her abuser out of necessity. These twenty apartments will help survivors by providing a safe, affordable home so that no woman needs to make the choice between safety and homelessness for herself and her children. From emergency shelter to transitional housing, and now with supportive housing, A Safe Place offers a full continuum of housing programs that support women on their journey to safety.

A Safe Place's new supportive housing project was honored by the Illinois Housing Development Authority with the 2012 Gale Cincotta Illinois Affordable Housing Award. This award is given in recognition of innovation and excellence in affordable housing throughout Illinois to a new affordable housing development that advances affordable housing in the state.

This recognition highlights A Safe Place's groundbreaking work in developing a supportive housing program that focuses on providing housing and services to survivors of domestic violence. Ours is the first IHDA-funded supportive housing development in Illinois with a focus on this special population. The affordable housing community has long recognized domestic violence as a factor that increases a woman's risk for homelessness. By developing our 20-unit apartment building, A Safe Place is helping to prevent homelessness for women who have already struggled and survived so much. We are grateful to the Illinois Housing Development Authority for bestowing this honor upon A Safe Place.

Awards

A Safe Place is proud to recognize Justice Anne Burke's contributions on behalf of abused women and children across the State of Illinois with an award that is named for A Safe Place's first president, Joyce Fitzgerald.

Honoring Justice Burke

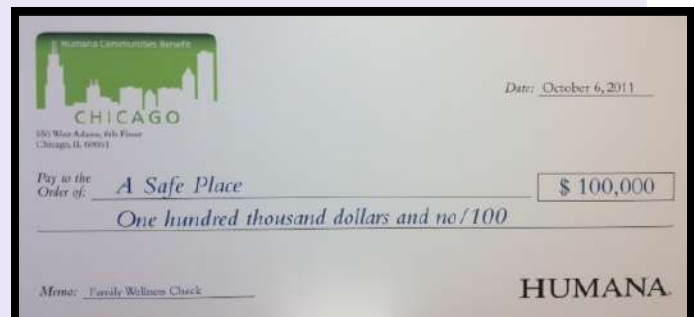

A Safe Place honored Illinois Supreme Court Justice Anne Burke with the Joyce Fitzgerald Award at our 2nd annual Unmask the Violence event on October 29, 2011. The Joyce Fitzgerald Award honors a unique woman whose ongoing leadership and true spirit of volunteerism advances the mission of A Safe Place, and whose dedication advances the rights of women. Justice Burke has endeavored to provide a voice to society's most fragile citizens throughout, and prior to, her distinguished legal career. Before her appointment to the judiciary, Justice Burke was a leading advocate on behalf of Chicago's most vulnerable of young people. As a physical education teacher with the Chicago Park District, she worked with children with disabilities. Out of that experience, she went on to found the Chicago Special Olympics in 1968. She later served as a director of that organization as it grew to become the International Special Olympics represented in more than 160 countries. A career advocate of children and society's most vulnerable citizens, Justice Burke also served as the director of the National Review Board of the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops which examined the clergy abuse scandal.

Dignity for Victims: The Humana Grant

A Safe Place was honored to receive the Humana Communities Benefit – Chicago Grant in October 2011. The $100,000 award helped A Safe Place to address building maintenance and outdated technology that have inhibited our effectiveness in assisting clients and have created inefficiencies among staff. With the renovation of the heating and air conditioning systems at A Safe Place's 20-year old shelter building, replacement of computers at all facilities, creation of computer labs for shelter and housing residents, and the purchase of new furnishings for transitional living apartments, Humana's grant helped A Safe Place to restore a comfortable environment that reflects a positive attitude so that clients feel better about themselves and the decisions they have made in leaving their abusive partner. Computer labs will allow residents to participate in computer training, search for employment and create resumes or complete school work.

New furnishings and the updated heating and cooling system have helped to create an environment that reflects the respect and dignity that A Safe Place promotes for each survivor who seeks support in our shelter and housing programs.
